Excerpt: . . . responsibility to the school and to the public is: 1. To prove that the kindergarten is not an expensive luxury, that it can be maintained at a moderate cost and still fulfill its function. We need to do away with elaborate materials and long lists of equipment. Fortunately, a child's best development is often secured through such materials as a box, a piece of string, odds and ends of cloth or ribbon from his mother's workbag. 2. The kindergarten procedure must show that the kindergarten is a fine illustration of the very principles of democracy which are needed for the rebuilding of the world. These are the principles we have. (a) The right of the child to self-expression. (b) The need of developing the initiative of the individual, always balanced by the need for that individual to participate in the group--both because...
